Introduction To Information Systems

James A. O'Brien George M Marakas

CIS 101 - Introduction to Information Systems - Computer. An Information System is a man-made system that facilitates an organization's operational functions and supports management decision making by providing.